OFFICIAL TRUCE TERMS

Germany presented France the following broad terms for an armistice:

"1—To prevent resumption of the war against Germany.

"2—To give Germany all guarantees ensuring continuance of the war against England.

"3—To create the basis of a new peace whose most essential contents will be redressing of the wrongs inflicted on Germany."

HITLER DEMANDS FRENCH AID WAR AGAINST BRITAIN

BERLIN, June 21 (AP)—Adolf Hitler delivered to the French today his—and Italy's—terms for halting the blitzkrieg in France, calling for French guarantees to facilitate continued war against Great Britain and the laying of the groundwork of a new European peace.

A preamble to the armistice conditions presented to four French peace envoys, containing these provisions, was read for the Fuehrer in the same railway car at the same French town, Compiegne, where Germany bowed in 1918.

The "essential contents" of the new European peace, envisaged by the Fuehrer, would be "reparation of the wrong done to the German Reich itself by force."

"An Enemy So Brave"

Hitler, flanked by the leaders of his armed forces and his foreign minister, met the French delegation at 3:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. Boston time) and retired after the armistice preamble had been read. He left to the strains of "Deutschland Uber Alles," played by a military band.

Colonel General Wilhelm Keitel read the preamble to the armistice conditions. This was accompanied by an announcement that Germany did not intend to cast aspersions on "an enemy so brave."

The text of the preamble read:

"By the order of the Fuehrer and supreme commander-in-chief I have the following communication to make:

"In reliance on assurances given the German Reich by the American President Wilson and confirmed by the Allied powers, German armed forces laid down their arms in November, 1918.

"Thereafter was ended a war which the German people and its government had not wanted and in which the enemy, despite tremendous superiority, did not successfully in any way conquer the German army, navy or German air force.

"PROMISES VIOLATED"

"However, at the moment of the arrival of the German armistice commission, violation of the solemnly given promise began. On November 11, 1918, in this car then began the time of suffering of the German people.

"What dishonor and humiliation, what human and material suffering could be caused had it culled here. Broken promises and perjury conspired against a people which after more than four years of heroic resistance had only one weakness—belief in the promises of democratic statesmen.

"On Sept. 3, 1939—25 years after the outbreak of the World War—England and France again declared war on Germany without any basis.

"Now the decision by arms has

PEACE TERMS DUE TODAY—At Compiegne, France, where stands the enshrined railway car (above) in which the Armistice of 1918 was signed, Chancellor Hitler's terms of peace for France today will be transmitted to French government officials... the world waiting the decision of the Fuehrer's demands. It's possible that the terms will be signed in the railroad car shrine.

IN THE COMPIEGNE WOODS,

June 21—Today, on the same spot in these woods where nearly 22 years ago Marshal Foch dismantled Imperial Germany, French plenipotentiaries asked Chancellor Hitler's troops to cease firing and grant an armistice.

At the same hour that the Germans signed on the dotted line in 1918, the French representatives were commanded to appear here and listen to Hitler's price for the "lost war."

Two French generals, one admiral and one diplomat had the sad duty of bowing their heads in defeat and hearing the German terms in these cool woods which, in 1918, withered France's hour of greatest triumph.

The Compiegne roads wind through broken trees and barricades toward a single spur track where tourists for the past 20 years have wandered, pecked and gazed at the plaque which states that here stood Foch's military car while he and his adjutant, Gen. Weygand, in another railway coach a few feet away, laid down France's armistice terms to Germany's delegates.

The French built a small house over the same railway coach and left everything inside just as it was on that historic day in 1918.

Reminders of war can be seen everywhere. Overhead roar Stukas and Heinkels. In the woods are all sorts of German officers and adjutants. Troops and trucks are on the highways.

Five miles east of this spot lies the town of Compiegne, which itself symbolizes the tragic situation of France, for everywhere in the little city shells and bombs have left gaping, black holes. Save for German soldiers, hardly a soul is visible in Compiegne.

Weygand's troops tried to make a stand in the Compiegne woods, but were trapped for days while a furious Stuka and artillery bombardment pounded them.

FRENCH ARMY FIGHTS ON DESPITE PEACE PARLEY

BORDEAUX, June 21 (AP)—French negotiators were expected to return to Bordeaux today with Germany's preliminary terms for an armistice. Then the Cabinet was expected to meet and decide whether the government should remain here or move to another spot.

It was thought possible that the Germans would designate some (here one word censored) region where the government could remain undisturbed pending an elaboration of permanent terms.

Germans on the other hand were optimistic that negotiations would be concluded in Compiegne Forest today with the French plenipotentiaries. It was there that Germany accepted the 1918 armistice terms—Editor's Note.

And while the French steeled themselves today to pay a high price for peace in the face of defeat on the field of battle, the armies, still fighting, withdrew ever further southward before the advancing forces of Adolf Hitler.

In Rome, the Italian government announced that France had asked a separate armistice and had been told to name special envoys to hear Mussolini's terms, already agreed upon with Hitler.

In Cairo, reliable quarters said that French forces and the fleet in the eastern Mediterranean were resolved to carry on the war "whatever the outcome of the French-German negotiations."

(Exact information of the whereabouts of the French government was lacking, although it still was in Bordeaux last night. Previously there had been reports that President Albert Lebrun had gone to North Africa. Reports via London and San Sebastian, Spain, said the government might go to Biarritz, on the bay of Biscay.—Editor's Note.)

PEAIN IN STATEMENT

As the Nazi invaders overran France from the channel coast below Nantes to the Swiss frontier, Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, the "hero of Verdun" in the World War, expressed the French view thus:

"The French people do not deny defeat when it stares them in the face. We will learn our lesson from the lost battle."

A war office spokesman gave

Italian Fliers Bomb 3 Bases

ROME, June 21 (INS)—Italian bombing attacks on Malta, Elberta, and Marzamathru were announced in the Italian war communique today.

The communique said an enemy raid was repulsed at Javel with two enemy planes shot down.

The announcement also stated enemy air activity over Italy was reduced.

The authoritative newspaper Popolo di Roma reported Bordeaux was bombed four times early today.

The London Daily Telegraph said 100 German bombers participated in a previous attack on Bordeaux yesterday. More than 150 bombs were dropped and casualties exceeded 100, the paper said.—Editor's note.

War Risk Insurance Rates Again Raised

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—For three consecutive days American marine insurance underwriters have increased war-risk insurance rates on shipments to and from the East and Far East on the belief that a German commerce raider is operating in the South Pacific.

During the war of 1914-1918, the German raider "Wolf" wrought havoc on shipping in the South Pacific and there have been rumors that another raider—possibly a pocket battleship—has been sent by Germany to harass British shipping around the Cape of Good Hope.

WEATHER REPORT

Fiery Debate Brewing Over Knox, Stimson

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—A momentous Senate debate on Roosevelt foreign and defense policies was shaping up today amid furor over the unexpected appointment of two Republican cabinet members, who were promptly disowned by their party's national committee.

F. D. Hits Critics For Partisan Politics in Crisis

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 21 (INS)—President Roosevelt today charged those who criticize his appointment of Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox to the War and Navy posts in the cabinet are inspired by purely partisan motives at a time the nation is facing a most difficult situation.

As to inferences of various Republican leaders that his appointment of the two Republicans, indicated he would not run for a third term, and that he was setting up a "war cabinet and a war party."

Mr. Roosevelt said he had seen all kinds of things charged since the Stimson-Knox appointments. The best answer, he said, came to him last night after he had gone to bed.

He realized, he said, there was some sort of difference between two kinds of people—those who think in terms of patriotic motives and those who think in terms of partisan motives.

He pointed to his formal statements of yesterday that he was undertaking "a defense program not aimed at intervention in world affairs which do not concern the American hemisphere."

WINDSOR, WALLY IN SPAIN

BARCELONA, June 21 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor and his American-born duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, joined a growing list of dignitaries taking refuge in Spain today as the German armies swept over France.

The Duke and Duchess came to Barcelona last night from Junquera, near the French-Spanish border, after crossing the frontier at Port Bou on the east coast. A close friend of the Duke, Baron Eugene de Rothschild of the famous banking family, and his wife, the former Katherine Wolf of Philadelphia, arrived in San Sebastian yesterday without a cent. They received credit to continue to Lisbon, Portugal.

It was reported here that Edouard Daladier, former French premier, also had passed through San Sebastian en route to Lisbon. Reports reaching Madrid said that former Premier Hubert Pierlot of Belgium and Georges Bonnet, former French foreign minister, also were in Spain.

Others now in Spain include David Well, California banker; the former Empress Zita of Austria and her son, Archduke Otto, pretender to the non-existent Austrian throne; the family of the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg; the three children of King Leopold of Belgium, Polish Pianist Stanislas Nielleski, and the French Ambassador to Argentina, Jean Tsipier.

Senate action on the nominations may be delayed until after the Republican convention next week, but the first stormy discussion—pro and con—made it evident that the vote on confirmation will follow a thorough argument over America's course in regard to the European war.

Both Henry L. Stimson, chosen to be secretary of war, and Col. Frank Knox, named secretary of the navy, are in frank agreement with President Roosevelt's program of material aid to the Allies.

To critics who charged that he was setting up a "war cabinet," the chief executive replied in a statement last night:

"The appointments to the cabinet are in line with overwhelming sentiment for national solidarity in time of world crisis and in behalf of national defense and nothing else."

FORECASTS RESIGNATION

War Secretary Woodring, whose resignation the President accepted to make way for Stimson, was quoted by the Topeka (Ksa) Capital as having told friends in Topeka recently:

"There is a comparatively small clique of international financiers who want the United States to declare war and get into the European mess with everything we have, including our man power."

"They don't like me because I'm against stripping our own defenses for the sake of trying to stop Hitler 3000 miles away. Eventually they will force me to resign."

The White House did not make public Woodring's letter of resignation, describing it as "too personal." There long has been a rift between the retiring secretary and his assistant, Louis Johnson, a rift which stirred criticism in various quarters when the defense program was undertaken. Johnson generally is expected to keep his post.

The surprise nominations, which flabbergasted many members of both major parties in and out of

POOR MORALE COST FRANCE WAR, KNICKERBOCKER SAYS

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

SOMEWHERE ON THE ENGLISH SOUTH COAST, June 21—The savagery of war has finally touched Great Britain as for the first time in her modern history thousands of her citizens took flight from Chancellor Hitler's war machine on the European continent.

Nazis Seize 2 Warships And 400 U. S. Planes

BERLIN, June 21 (AP)—Germany's military machine shoved steel spearheads deeper into France "on schedule" today.

Reports of additional booty came from the Germans as they nipped up sections of the Magnot line and took new places in Normandy, Brittany and the region between the Loire estuary and the Rhine valley.

The newspaper Der Angriff said two 35,000-ton French battleships, the Clemenceau and the Richelieu were seized at Brest, where they are being built.

The Berlin radio reported in New York today that German troops had captured 400 planes which had "just arrived from the United States" and 2000 motors "complete with plans for mounting." DNB did not report the place of capture.—Editor's Note.

The high command reported these successes:

Capture of 700 brand new tanks at Nevoay, near Gien; the sinking by submarines of four British merchant ships, one of them a Royal Mail at 11,000 tons, and the sinking by fighting and dive-bombing air units of a 10,000-ton transport and a 600-ton auxiliary warship in the Gironde estuary.

The capture of Lym, French city which fell to the Germans yesterday, was noted in today's communiqué, which said far German troops were pushing through Burgundy.

The French were reported "stubbornly resisting" in the light line in Lorraine and Alsace while encircled groups in the western Vosges mountains are continuing their fight against the Nazis.

With 1500 other survivors of Hitler's assault upon France we reached England today on a ship whose maximum passenger capacity supposedly was 150.

It was plain to us from repeated visits to the French front that, however large a role German material strength may have played in this French tragedy, it was French morale which broke and decided the war issue.

Between Monday, when we boarded the ship at Bordeaux, and today our company endured several bombing attacks by German planes and escaped through a freshly laid field of magnetic mines.

Accompanying us, another ship carried several hundred more refugees, including the entire staff of the British embassy in France.

NEWSMEN FLEE

We both were escorted by several vessels of the British navy. Our four-day odyssey of misery is a trifling incident—but it is a good illustration of what is happening to the tens of millions throughout Europe.

Ninety per cent of us had homes in Paris. All of us left in German hands everything we owned in the world.

Among us are several persons well known in America, such as Eve Curie, daughter of the discoverer of radium; Henry Bernstein, famous French playwright; Robert Rothschild, Belgian Public Health

PAL NEAR DEATH IN SHOOTING

ATTLEBORO, June 21—A tragic climax to an old story of the accidentally discharged gun, two Attleboro high school sophomores, close chums, were principals in a battle against death at Memorial hospital today.

Fighting for his life was Raymond J. O'Brien, 16, of Avery st., North Attleboro, shot in the abdomen.

Unconsoled was his pal, Herbert B. Goff, Jr., 17, of Peck st., Attleboro, who police, say, fired the shot which physicians said may be fatal.

But physically recovering was young Goff from a blood transfusion which he had given his wounded chum.

It started out in jest and was purely accidental, Police Inspector Howard O'Hare said after questioning Goff.

Young O'Brien had challenged his friend to play to "shoot me," O'Hare said. Goff, believing the safety catch of the .22 caliber rifle was in place, fired.

"Something slipped on the gun and it discharged," O'Hare quoted Goff as saying. "I looked at the safety catch and it was still on. Then I asked Raymond, 'Did I shoot you?' Raymond grabbed at his stomach and said, 'Yes.'"

Convicted Mother Loses Custody Plea

Judge William M. Prest, in probate court today, refused to modify a decree of child custody sought by Mrs. Mary Ann Della Sala of Belmont and involving her three-year-old daughter, Leona.

Temporary custody of the child was granted last October to the father, Elia Della Sala of Jamaica Plain.

The couple have filed cross-motions for divorce, Della Sala charging cruel and abusive treatment, and the wife, now under a suspended sentence to the Women's Reformatory at Sherborn on morals charges, alleges cruel and abusive treatment and neglect to provide.

Judge Prest also refused today a request for temporary alimony and set hearing for the divorce libels for the fall, probably in September.

Last December, in Waltham court, Mrs. Della Sala, then living in Mack's ct., Waltham, was given an indefinite sentence at Sherborn after a trial in which it was testified that she had lured her home to stage wild revels with high school boys and girls and that obscene pictures and literature were provided the youngsters.

In superior court, however, the 20-year-old wife pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence.

The proceedings were marked by a charge against her attorney, who later withdrew from the case, that he attempted to obtain perjury of boy and girl witnesses.

N. Y. on Guard After Bombings

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Increased precautions were taken today to guard representatives of belligerent nations in New York—the aftermath of two bombings which damaged buildings housing the German consulate and the Communist publication, the Daily Worker.

Ten persons were hurt in the blasts occurring 40 minutes apart late yesterday. The first explosion, injuring nine, shattered windows and wrecked furniture at a German money exchange firm on the 18th floor of the Whitehall building overlooking Battery Park.

On the floor above are the offices of Dr. Hans Borchers, German consulate-general. They were undamaged and consulate attaches scoffed at police suggestions the consulate was the target, insisting that the firm below (Deutscher Handels Und Wirtschaftsdienst) had no link with the consulate or official Germany.

The Daily Worker building two miles uptown, in which are the principal offices of the Communist party in America, was bombed later. The blast tore away a door-step and shattered windows. It injured a young woman concert singer who had been standing in the hallway.

55 U. S. Planes Off for Halifax

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Fifty-five attack bombing planes destined for British army use took off today from Mitchell Field for Halifax, N. S., where they will be loaded for shipment.

The planes are Northrup A-17-A's, part of a group of 93 released by the War Department on June 11 for re-sale to France and sent winging the same day from all parts of the country for their rendezvous here.

In the meantime, France asked Germany for an armistice and arrangements were completed whereby the British took the planes. Army fliers brought them in, but they were taken out by private pilots.

The planes were to be flown non-stop to Halifax. A relaxing of neutrality law restrictions permits the direct flights.

Hospital Shut, Man Dies in Ambulance

THEIR DAY OF DAYS

The doors of the East Boston Relief Hospital were closed when they brought 61-year-old Albert Payne there today.

By the time they had arrived with him at the Boston City Hospital the doors of life had closed.

Payne, unmarried, lives with an aunt in St. Botolph st., Back Bay. He is a stock clerk in the surplus commodities division welfare distributing center on Summer st., East Boston.

Fellow workers said he arrived at the center at nine o'clock, in apparently the best of health. About 9:30 a. m., however, he suddenly collapsed into a chair, panting for breath.

East Boston police were called and took Payne in their ambulance to the East Boston Relief Hospital. "Hours—10 a. m. to 6 p. m." the sign on the hospital read.

At 3:15, its doors were locked. Payne was rushed to Boston City Hospital in the ambulance.

He was pronounced dead on arrival.

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 21 (INS)—New England convention of 800 members of the Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect today faced an almost prohibitive barrier in an effort to hire Montpelier's municipal hall.

Beliefs of the sect prohibits saluting the flag, a practice which has produced numerous incidents.

Inch Snow Fall In Adirondacks

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 21 (AP)—Topscoats were worn in upstate New York today as icy temperatures greeted the first day of summer.

Owls Head in the Adirondacks, the state's traditional "icebox," reported an overnight minimum of 36 degrees.

The lowest temperature in the state, however, was 26 degrees at Whiteface mountain near Lake Placid in the heart of the Adirondacks where nearly an inch of snow fell during the early morning.

Stocks Dull, Irregular

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The speculative appetite waned further in today's stock market and leading issues shifted over a slightly irregular range.

After a quiet opening the ticker tape frequently came to a halt and trends remained indefinite near the second hour.

Among resistant shares were United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville and N. Y. Central.

Backward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Texas Corp., Boeing, Anaconda and Loft. Bonds and commodities were mixed. "Free" sterling rallied in terms of the dollar.

Chief McCarrick, considered one of the nation's outstanding experts, promised a thorough check of probable causes of the blaze to determine if a deliberate attempt was made to interfere with work for the U. S. Navy.

An investigation by experts in the State Fire Marshal's office may be requested, Revere police said.

The blaze was confined to the east wing of the one-story rambling wooden building. It was discovered shortly after midnight by the watchman, John O'Brien, whose speedy alarm checked heavier damage.

The plant is now working only a single day shift and it was thought all workmen had left the plant shortly after 5 p. m., yesterday.

A large part of the work at present is handling naval contracts for furnishing brass fixtures for submarines. In a previous fire, less than a year ago, a section used for turning out destroyer fixtures was damaged.

Congress Seen Sure To Remain in Session

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The bi-partisan bloc demanding that Congress remain in session appeared today to have triumphed over administration lieutenants seeking a recess until August 1.

Republican and Democratic leaders in both Chambers were reported to have reached a compromise understanding by which Congress would quit for one week only during each of the two national political conventions.

Even that agreement, however, was said to be contingent on final approval of pending defense, tax and relief legislation by Saturday—two days before the Republican convention meets at Philadelphia. The Democrats convene July 15.

In a rush of recess maneuvers, a joint Senate-House committee approved a compromise $1,158,000,000 relief bill late yesterday and returned it to both Chambers for final action.

A conference committee called an early morning meeting (10:30 a. m. Boston time) today in an effort to reconcile far-reaching differences between Senate and House defense tax bills. The Senate approved the $1,777,000,000 supplemental defense bill and sent it back to the House for consideration of amendments.

Speaker Bankhead and Rep. Rayburn of Texas, the Democratic floor leader, said they were concentrating their efforts toward obtaining House approval of appropriation measures, which go into effect with the start of the fiscal year July 1.

G.O.P. OUSTS KNOX, STIMSON, PLAN ANTI-WAR PLATFORM

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 21 (AP)—Republicans assembling for their 1940 national convention veered sharply toward strong anti-war platform declarations today after a tumultuous national committee meeting in which they read Henry L. Stimson and Col. Frank Knox out of the party.

They denounced Herbert Hoover's Secretary of State and Alf M. Landon's 1936 running mate as "interventionists" for accepting the posts of war and navy in President Roosevelt's Cabinet and said the course the President was following indicated he wanted to lead the country into war.

Meanwhile, the report was widely circulated that Mr. Roosevelt would not run for a third term. It was hinted at in Landon's statement in which he spoke highly of the ability and patriotism of Stimson and Knox but said he hoped they had not been misled by such third term assurances as might have been given them.

As members of the resolutions sub-committee settled down to drafting a platform—expected to be brief and to follow the general pattern of the Frank Glenn report—the impression was spreading that the anti-war, non-intervention declaration would be sharp and direct. The Foreign Affairs sub-committee, headed by Landon, will start work today.

"SITUATION CHANGING"

Landon said he wanted to delay the work to gain more time and allow the world situation to steady a little before the party declared itself.

"The situation is changing so rapidly that each day of time we can gain will help," he commented.

One of the chief platform laborers yesterday, and one which took a committee far into the night, was the hearing accorded a group of Republican representatives by the agricultural sub-committee. Representative Hope of Kansas, who led a Republican congressional group into widely separated sections of the country to study the problem during the last year, presented his findings.

They included a proposal that the Republican party endeavor to fashion its farm policy to the general welfare of the nation, with a continuation of subsidies through conservation payments to farmers as long as such a policy is needed to balance their income with that of other workers.

The committee did not propose to tie the subsidies to crop control, however. Nor did it make a specific recommendation on food stamps, which are used to dispose of surplus crops. It proposed that the Republican farm plan be geared to supply greater benefits to the family type of farm.

SOUTHERN CONTESTS

In other quarters, the national committee worked throughout the day listening to contests which produced the usual tussles from Mississippi, Florida and Louisiana. The winners were delegations headed by National Committeemen Perry W. Howard from Mississippi, L. Leonard Replogle of Florida and John E. Jackson of Louisiana.

The delegations were unimpressed but both Senator Taft of Ohio and Thomas E. Dewey of New York claimed strength there. Frank E. Gannett, the New York State publisher, arrived in the city yesterday bringing the first band. Gov. James of Pennsylvania had already given them a glimpse of one candidate.

But the whole convention was flavored with discussion, much of it resentful, of the Stimson-Knox appointments.

Col. Knox, a delegate-at-large from Illinois, turned in his resignation to his state committee and cancelled a hotel reservation which would have brought him to Philadelphia last night.

Mrs. Willkie Tells Reactions

NEW YORK June 21 (INS)—Wendell Willkie as President—well!

Mrs. Wendell Willkie as first lady—well—

Blue-eyed, spirited and diminutive Mrs. Willkie pursed her lips, arched her eyebrows and thus dubiously described her mixed reactions toward her dynamic husband's presidential possibilities.

"I'm always in favor of my husband for everything—the presidency included," she explained.

"But I don't know whether I look forward with pleasure to the possibility for myself."

"I would mind giving up my private life and I certainly could never make speeches."

Harvard's Phi Beta Kappa to Elect

Commencement exercises ended, the Harvard chapter of Phi Beta Kappa held the stage today with its annual meeting in Sanders Theater.

Presiding at the exercises of the national scholastic honor society was Judge Learned Hand, Harvard '93, of New York, president of the Harvard chapter. William G. Constable, curator of paintings at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, was the orator, while F. R. McCreary, preceptor in English at Harvard, was poet.

The program also called for election of new officers. Harvard closed its 364th year by announcing receipt of gifts totaling $4,857,942 during the past year, during Commencement exercises at which 2347 degrees were conferred together with 10 honorary degrees.

In the presence of scores of no-

Mayor Tobin, J. P. Morgan and officers of the army and navy, the exercises were held in Sever Quadrangle.

In addition to Sec. Hull, honorary degrees were awarded: Carl Sandburg, of Harbert, Mich., biographer of Lincoln, Doctor of Letters; Dr. Elliott P. Joslin of Boston, international authority on diabetes; Doctor of Science; Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, Doctor of Laws; Prof. Julian L. Coolidge of Harvard, first master of Lowell House, Doctor of Laws; Alfred N. Richards, professor of pharmacology at University of Pennsylvania, Doctor of Science; William Church Osborn, New York attorney, Doctor of Laws; Eliel Saarinen, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., architect, Doctor of Arts; Thomas Barbour, naturalist and director Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology, Doctor of Science, and Paul P. Cret, Philadelphia architect, Doctor of Arts.

The university's first annual alumni medal "for services to Harvard" was awarded to Charles C. Burlingham, '79, New York attorney and former president of both the Harvard Alumni Association and the New York Bar.

One of the gifts announced by President Conant was an anonymous bequest of $51,410 to be known as the Charitable Irish Society Fund for the purpose of teaching and research in Celtic languages and literature.

Gov. Saltonstall, in his commencement address, said: "Our quest for knowledge is futile without the companionship of integrity and truth, aimless without the beacon light of moral and spiritual values. The world today needs more faith in God—more confidence in itself and an undying determination that no government or group of individuals which seeks to make its citizens desert that spiritual faith in favor of the worship of state as its spiritual successor will impose its way of life upon us in the United States."

Grill 5th Column Suspect in Vain

Still refusing to reveal his identity after a day's questioning by Cambridge police and G-men, the man arrested at the home of Pres. James B. Conant of Harvard and suspected of Fifth Column activities was today sent to the Boston Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

Meantime, officials hoped to learn the man's identity through a check-up with police in Indiana, believed to be the suspect's home state and where he may at one time have been connected with a college faculty.

Literature and papers found in his possession and in a Cambridge apartment where he had been staying led police to believe he had been engaging in propaganda of a subversive nature.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest, it may rot decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Sinborrhly refuse anything else.

Millionaire, Son Both Training At Plattsburg

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Marshall Field, 3d, of Huntington, N. Y., who some years ago inherited $180,000,000 from his grandfather, the Chicago department store magnate, applied yesterday for admittance to the 1940 Plattsburg camp for a month of military training.

A short time later his son, Marshall Field, 4th, also applied. Neither knew of the other's action until later.

About 1200 men have applied for the 1940 Plattsburg camp, which is sponsored by the Military Camps Training Ass'n, the organization which conducted the same camp during the World War.

It's 15° COOLER in a BOND TROPICAL

Looks like our hot friend isn't wise to all the facts of life. Sweltering is taboo in polite society. Nowadays, it's so easy to look fresh and cool—by following this one simple rule. Tenderly consign your stuffy heavyweight clothes to the moth balls. Then get your shoulders under a shower-cool Bond Tropical Worsteds. Thousands of "little windows" let out body heat, snare the slightest breeze. And the well-pressed drape with which you start each day will still be there at 6 P.M. Finest zephyr-worsted yarns do the trick. Wear dark shades for business, lighter tones for sports and week-ends. Get set for the next heat wave. This is the week to do it—Bond's is the place. ★ All it takes is

Two trousers are a "must" with many men. And Bond, the "old 2-trouser smoothy" fills the bill as usual with a typical low Bond price.

DEPORTATION HANGS ON PARDON

The State parole board today set July 3 for hearing the petition of Robert Henry of Lawrence, who seeks a full pardon to prevent deportation to England and possible participation in the war.

Henry was released from state prison in 1933 after serving part of a three to five-year sentence for breaking, entering and larceny.

The board also announced that a hearing was held on petition of Frank Stevens, the notorious "lone wolf" bandit who terrorized Boston women in a series of robberies nearly 20 years ago. Stevens asked for a continuance until such time as his wife arrives from England to testify in his behalf.

He has served 15 years of a life sentence.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

Ex-Tax Collector's

Shortage $5447

The alleged shortage in the accounts of Granville S. Demeritt, former Middleboro tax collector, amounted to $5447, Director Theodore N. Waddell of the state division of accounts reported to Middleton selectmen today.

Demeritt resigned April 25 after admitting the shortage to state examiners, Waddell stated. The funds represented receipts from taxpayers which were not turned over to the town treasurer, Waddell said.

MATE SPAT AT HER, SHE IS FREED

She's afraid to walk down Broadway, South Boston, because her husband waits on the corner and spits at her, Mrs. Wanda Burkhead, 28, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Mrs. Burkhead, pretty brunette mother of two children, was granted a divorce from Silas Burkhead, post office employee, on grounds of cruelty.

"During our married life my husband has often gotten drunk and beaten and choked me," Mrs. Burkhead said.

She was granted $15 a week alimony for her two children.

Samuel I. Williston, police officer attached to the Dudley st. station, was given a tour of duty testified his wife attacked him with a razor blade.

Williston, who lives in Winthrop st., Roxbury, said he was married July 16, 1936, and that when he came home from a tour of duty Sept. 10, 1939, he found his wife Mary drunk in their home.

"First, she hit me with a door-knob," he said. "I put her to bed and I took off my shoes and coat and went into another room and sat down and she came out and attacked me with a razor blade."

"It took 17 stitches to close the wound."

French Army Fights On

this picture of the military situation.

"German advance units, sweeping through Lyon—third largest French city—pushed eastward to the French-Swiss border at Bellegarde, 15 miles from Geneva."

From Geneva, Switzerland, came word that German motorized forces were waiting south of Lyon and in the Rhone valley for reinforcements before driving south toward Marseilles and east toward a meeting with the Italian army—Editor's note.)

The French forces withdrawn from the Magnot Line, now called the army of Alsace and Lorraine, were battling to cut their way through the German columns to the French southeast forces. Some of 50,000 Magnot troops, bottled up by the Germans, crossed into Switzerland, laying down their arms.

Along the Loire river, in the heart of France, the French central army fell back a few miles to the Cher river.

In the west, the Nazis pushed south of Nantes, having cut off the whole Brittany peninsula, including the Channel ports of Brest and St. Nazaire.

WATERFRONT FIRE PERILS NAZI, DANISH SHIPS

Boston firemen breathed easier today after multiple alarm fires which nearly created an international incident on the waterfront and menaced millions of cubic feet of illuminating gas in Roxbury. Fire did an estimated $5000 damage to Battery Wharf. It was confined to a warehouse, but Chief Samuel J. Pope made arrangements to haul into the channel the Nazi freighter Pauline Friedrich and two Danish ships. The Roxbury fire did $8000 damage at the Harvey Tire Company in Tilton street. Water curtains saved a 1000 gallon tank of naphtha, a large deposit of wax and an illuminating gas tank, all on adjoining property.

So grave was the danger of explosions and harmful fumes that all firemen in close contact with the blaze donned masks.

HOPES BRIGHTER FOR U. S. TO ADMIT WAR ORPHANS

Hope for the bringing of European war orphans to Americans who have offered the children homes becomes daily brighter. Influenced by letters sent by New England men and women to the editors of the American, Record and Sunday Advertiser, many Senators and Representatives in Washington are supporting the humane movement.

Representative Lawrence J. Conery of Lynn says:

"I believe the proposal to be a most charitable impulse. I am thoroughly sympathetic with the idea."

Senator Robert Reynolds of North Carolina states:

"I don't see how there could be any objection to the adoption of the war orphans by American families if it was done by legal adoption and individually by the families."

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers adds:

"I think it is certainly humane, generous and kind on the part of these families who have made the offer to take care of the orphans of the war."

NEW LAWS NEEDED

But immigration law restrictions must be lifted and, if necessary, new legislation written.

Therefore, the editor of the American invites all who want war orphans to write him. The more letters he receives the more impressive will be the proof that New Englanders desire these unfortunate babies.

Every letter will go to the proper authorities in the hope that as soon as the children come to Amer-

WAR REFUGEES Let's Ask for Them

ca, the who have applied for them to receive them.

LET'S FOUR IN Typa letters in today's mail say:

KEEE, N. H.—"My husband and I would like to adopt a war orphan of Polish or Dutch nationality. We would prefer a blond girl, two or three years of age. We could give the little one a good home and most everything her little heart would desire.

"May God bless you for the wonderful work you are doing."

SOUTH BOSTON—"Those officials who are delaying the arrival of the war orphans in America do not know how hard it is to want children and be unable to have them. During my 10 years of marriage I have begged God to send me a baby boy or girl. If now I care for a little son or daughter from Britain, France or Holland, I shall feel that my prayer has been answered."

BEVERLY—"My husband and myself would be most happy if we could take a war orphan, a girl, seven or eight years old. We have been married many years and have no children of our own. You may be sure the little one would be brought up a good American citizen."

BRIGHTON—"I am writing to both Sen. Walsh and Sen. Lodge, whom I know personally. They have supported many good movements, but none as charitable as this. As I see it, we in America can save thousands of children or we can allow them to be killed in bombardments or starved to death in the food shortage that is bound to follow the cessation of hostilities.

"My wife and I will take four children, either for the duration of war or permanently. We have no little ones of our own, and we can well afford to feed and educate a family."

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I.—"We have read your articles about the little war orphans of Europe and we think it would be a wonderful opportunity for couples like ourselves who want children to take as many of them as they can into their homes."

"We would like to adopt a little girl one year or under. But if there are none available of that age, we would like one around two. We would prefer one from Finland, but will gladly take one from Holland or England."

"We are a Protestant couple, married 10 years and have no children. We will give the child a good home and all the advantages we could give our own child if God had blessed us with one."

"I sincerely hope and pray the Immigration laws can be adjusted to let these poor little children come into the homes they need before it is too late."

PROVIDENCE—"My husband and I have been married eight years and have had the misfortune of losing two children. We would love to adopt a little war orphan girl about two or three years of age of Jewish parentage."

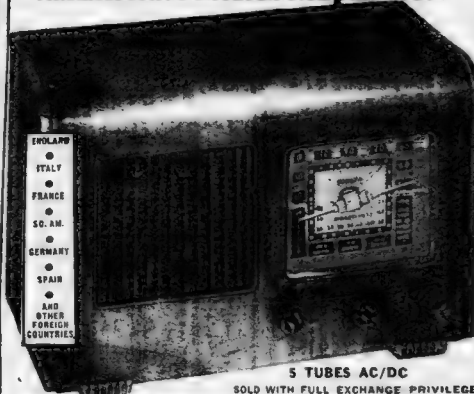

"We are not wealthy, but we could bring up the child with all the love and care of real parents in a good, clean and respectable home."

PORTLAND, Me.—"We have been so interested in your articles on war orphans that my husband and I would like to have one for our own. We are in our middle thirties, in moderate circumstances, with one child, a boy of seven. For years we have longed for a little girl, but until now it has seemed hopeless."

"We would like a little girl between the ages of one and four, as we want her to grow up in our home with the same love and care we give our boy. The nationality is not important."

F. D. R. ASKS $22,590,000 TO TRAIN SKILLED LABOR

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today to provide $22,590,000 for the prompt training of skilled and semi-skilled workers needed in industries vital to the national defense program.

The recommendation went to a Senate appropriations sub-committee at a moment when critical legislative committee was being directed at the labor and employment chief of the national defense commission, S. Huey P. Young.

Hillman, president of the CIO Americanized Clothing Workers of America, would direct a major part of the year defense training program. He said that the program was being advanced by President Roosevelt and it was the prospect of his training in this capacity which caused some House members.

"God alone can save this country," Rep. Cox (D.) of Georgia exclaimed yesterday in the House. "If Hillman takes over the compulsory training of 2,000,000 young men and women annually."

Cox's opinion was seconded by Rep. Woodrum (D.) of Virginia, a ranking member of the appropriations committee. He predicted that any youth training program would have difficulty getting through Congress because of the fact that Mr. Hillman has been selected to head it up.

Story on Page 17 tells of Congress' intention to remain in session.—Editor's note.

Hillman, meanwhile, announced that he expected to have ready in a few days a "complete and full program" for the instruction of skilled workers.

He said vocational schools, the National Youth Administration, the CCC and private industry figured in the plans and intimated that some training of a military character might be involved.

President Roosevelt's $22,590,000 request for training workers allocated the money to the office of education, the social security board, and the labor department.

Among other things the program would provide $2,000,000 for an emergency transportation loan fund, from which advances would be given workers taking essential jobs away from home.

Another potential source of controversy to come to the fore yesterday was the comprehensive draft bill introduced by Sen. Burke (D.) of Nebraska.

Turning the nation "gravely threatened," the bill would have all men between 18 and 65—approximately 40,000,000—register for possible military service.

PAN-AMERICAN TRADE PACT IN DEFENSE MOVE, SAYS F.D.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today his program for Pan-American economic co-operation involved "economic defense" designed to supplement our military defense program.

In a statement issued at a press conference shortly after he arrived from Washington, Mr. Roosevelt asserted the contemplated measures for achieving economic unity among the Pan-American nations were "intended as a further safeguard for the peace of this hemisphere and as a means of protecting our economy and the economies of the other American republics from the repercussions of the disturbed international situation."

NOT TO EXCLUDE CANADA

He omitted any reference to Canada, although presidential aides previously had said the Dominion "would not be excluded."

The program for economic unity was approved by the President last night and ordered submitted to the other American nations for their approval.

The President did not disclose details of how his plan for Pan-American economic co-operation would work out, but he added that perhaps a series of corporations might be formed, each to handle a specific export commodity. Or perhaps one corporation might be set up, he said, with divisions in charge of separate commodities.

As for capital structure necessary for the new program, the Chief Executive said a corporation or $2,000,000,000 is not high.

You see, he said, you can do with a corporation owning 10, 50 or 100 times as much volume of business as you have capital structure.

Italians Charge U. S. Acts Will Bring Reprisals

ROME, June 21 (INS)—A new warning that the American Monroe Doctrine might be doomed to self-destruction was sounded by Uginio Giayda in the authoritative Giornale d'Italia today.

Giayda, frequent mouthpiece for Mussolini, said:

"America's intervention in the European war would signify the self-destruction of the fundamental Monroe doctrine and create a precedent for legitimate future reprisal, which would result in opening up the Pacific question."

British War Fund Gets 42 Diamonds

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—A necklace of 42 diamonds, many of them larger than 10-cent pieces, has been presented to the government by an anonymous woman to help the British war effort.

The necklace is to be sold June 28 by Christies, London auctioneers.

Canada Votes Conscription

OTTAWA, June 21 (AP)—The Senate adopted the government's measure conscripting Canada's manpower for defense of Canada and her economic and industrial resources for war purposes late last night, after the House of Commons had similarly acted.

With royal assent by Canada's new governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, the measure becomes law today.

Three days of effort by opposition and liberal groups in the House to qualify, and in one instance to nullify, the almost total powers to be conferred on the government, ended without success when the measure was given third reading.

The measure gives the government authority over manpower, industries and industrial resources similar to the authority conferred upon the government of Winston Churchill in England.

Although the government has the power to conscript Canadian men for military service, service overseas still is to be voluntary.

been reached. France has been conquered. The French government has requested the Reich government to make known to them the German conditions for an armistice.

"In the historic Compiegne forest designated for the reception of these conditions this is done in order once and for all to wipe out by this act of redeeming justice the memory which for France was no glorious page in its history, but which the German nation has always felt as the deepest humiliation of all times. After heroic resistance, France has been defeated and broken down in a sequence of bloody battles.

"Germany therefore does not intend to give the armistice conditions or armistice negotiations characteristics of aspirations against an enemy so brave.

"The purpose of the German demands are:

"1—To prevent a resumption of the fight.

"2—To offer to Germany all guarantees necessary for continuance of the war against Great Britain, which Britain forces upon Germany, as well as: "3—To create pre-conditions for formation of a new peace whose essential contents will be reparation of the wrong done to the German Reich by force."

WITH HIGHEST AIDES

With Hitler were both Keitel and Col-Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch and Foret in Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. Keitel is chief of the high command and von Brauchitsch is commander-in-chief of the German army.

France was represented by Gen. Charles Huntziger, former member of the Paris war cabinet, Leon Noel, former ambassador to Potsdam; Avonnet Gen. Jean Marie Joseph Bonnet and Jean Almer, Minister of War.

DNR, official German news agency announced. "Today's action in the forest of Compiegne has wiped out the wrongs done to German military honor. The dignity of the action toward an enemy humbly defeated stands in contrast to the eternal hate-sowing monuments at this place where Gallic heroism once shamed the undefeated German army."

Spain Seizes 2 French Planes

MADRID, June 21 (INS)—Two French warplanes were seized at San Sebastian, Spain, on Sunday. The planes were reported to have been shot down by a Spanish fighter, whose movement and he not clearly known.

A large number of French soldiers were seen in the case of the capture, according to the Spanish. The ships were full of passengers and apparently headed for French colonies in Africa.

Still more French bomber squadrons, flying low and presumably bound for Algeria, were sighted from the Balearic Islands. "Some members of a French airplane which sighted off Marseilles, the Rhodanes said they were flying to Algeria.

U. S. Cabinet Shift Gives Britain Hope

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—Britain extended her air raid precautions today, during a respite from bombings after two nights of heavy Nazi attacks, and Parliament mapped further secret sessions to weigh the war situation following a meeting yesterday lasting into the night.

German planes were reported off the northeast coast early last night but they did not cross the shoreline.

The government opened its largest air raid shelter today at Southwark, London, in a tunnel 50 to 70 feet in depth—a former subway station estimated to hold more than 11,000 persons. Conversion of the tunnel first built in 1892 cost £50,000 (about $175,000).

The House of Commons, which debated home defense and other war matters in secret late yesterday, probably will meet again in secret session next Thursday, it was reported.

MANY IN UNIFORM

A report of the proceedings, issued under the authority of the speaker, did not say how long the session lasted last night.

It was expected that at the next secret debate Minister of Supply Herbert Morrison might report on the progress of his department.

British newspapers interpreted President Roosevelt's addition of two Republicans to his Cabinet as creation of a coalition government and a sign that the United States would give the Allies more help.

The Daily Mail said the action is a warning that the United States really does mean business.

Wilson E. Woodruff, the paper's political correspondent, declared that "successful creation of the first coalition government in the history of the United States is bound to have a tremendous effect in all parts of the world. Its significance is profound."

The Herald said President Roosevelt had taken "a dramatic step toward closer support of the Allied cause."

British air raiders carried out "their usual nightly work" over the Ruhr and Rhineland last night "with some success," but left two planes behind, military sources reported today.

The same sources identified an Italian general previously reported captured by the British on the Libyan border as Gen. Lasturel, chief engineer of the Italian army in Libya and formerly chief engineer of the Pan American Expeditionary Force which took part in the Spanish Civil War.

The military informants dismissed as "most improbable" a rumor that the German planes which flew over South Wales in Wednesday's air raids on Britain might have come from Ireland.

They said the planes' behaviour that they came from a greater distance and were unfamiliar with the territory.

BOMB ITALIAN PLANTS

That rumor is "Fifth Column stuff or something like that," the informants said.

It was announced that 17 German airmen were taken prisoners in widespread raids over Britain Tuesday night and early Wednesday in which a number of German bombers were shot down. Twelve British inhabitants were killed by bombs.

The air ministry asserted that two of the Royal Air Force's heavy bombers in the first 24 hours of Italy's participation in the war successfully attacked the Ansaldo works at Genoa and the Fiat factory at Turin.

SENATE IN COALITION TILT

Congress, brought immediate speculation that cabinet reorganization might be continued with retirement of Miss Frances Perkins as Secretary of Labor. There was no comment in administration circles.

LA GUARDIA CHOICE?

Among those mentioned as a possible choice in case Miss Perkins should resign soon were Dan Tobin, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, and Mayor Fiorella La Guardia of New York.

The Knox-Stimson nominations not only excited the Senate when they were read yesterday afternoon but resulted in swift action by the Republican National Committee, meeting in Philadelphia.

The group unanimously approved a statement by Chairman John Hamilton saying that as cabinet members the two appointees "owe their allegiance to the President and hereafter will speak and act in that capacity."

Politicians examined the situation for clues as to whether Mr. Roosevelt would accept a third term nomination. Alf M. Landon, Knox running mate, expressed hope that the appointees "have not been misled in such assurances as must have given them regarding the third term movement."

Former President Hoover said that Mr. Roosevelt's action "has no effect upon the 1940 campaign. The national issues remain exactly where they were."

WAR CABINET

Senator Clark (D.), of Missouri, said that it is intended to vote against confirmation of Stimson and Knox "because they are both interventionists" and "men whose

"Stimson, Knox Not Our Affair," Nazi Attitude

BERLIN, June 21 (INS).—Nomination of Henry L. Stimson and Col. Frank Knox as American Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy is the United States' "own affair and none of Germany's business," a spokesman for the German foreign office said today.

"It is interesting only inasmuch as it causes the anti-German press to indulge in certain speculations," the spokesman said.

A spokesman for the German propaganda ministry commented in similar vein, but added:

"It is well known that Stimson and Knox are no friends of Germany, but it is also evident that German reaction toward the American cabinet reorganization is not unanimous."

day by day decisions might tend to make up a situation that might lead this country into war."

"I cannot regard their appointment," he said, "in any other light than as the selection of a war cabinet. I cannot vote to make the Democratic party a war party, and I will not follow the Democratic party as a war party."

Senator Wheeler (D.), of Montana, expressed a similar opinion. Democratic Leader Bailely, replying, said:

"In this hour of our extremity and emergency partisan politics ought to cut no figure, either in the executive or the legislative branch of government."

"I think the outstanding significance is that the President recognizes in this hour partisanship ought to be abandoned so far as it may be."

"I do not believe these appointments indicate that we are headed toward war. Only Congress can declare war."

Senator Holt (D.) of West Virginia, said he had read three weeks ago that there was "pressure" from London to get Woodring out of the Cabinet.

Minister Jaspard and former French Air Minister Pierre Cot.

Two-thirds of the refugees were British and most of the other one-third were divided among French, Poles and Czechs. Four American newspapermen aboard the vessel were the only United States citizens.

EYE FRENCH NAVY

There were 25 British correspondents and several French journalists.

All these 1500 refugees, including the most experienced journalists of France, Britain and America, are living in a half-dream, or rather in a nightmare, because none of us yet realize that what has happened is real.

That France, this great country with its great army, should have collapsed in five weeks, should have been nearly completely overrun and conquered in very little more time than it took to conquer Poland, that today the gravest question before the panic-stricken world is: whether the French navy will be surrendered to Germany—these are facts which to us now witnessing them at close range seem to be imagined fancies.

CENSORSHIP HARMFUL

Yet all of us have more reason than most to know how real these facts are.

We left Paris shortly after the French government and went to Tours May 10. We were there five days before the government was removed again to Bordeaux.

Those were days full of false hopes and repeated assurances that the French army would hold.

It was impossible to report otherwise through the French censorship which continued to the very end to be extremely harmful to the French cause.

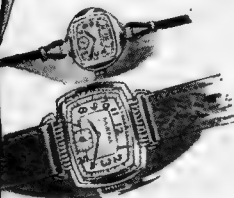

The outside world knew only a fraction of the truth about the German first break through and across the Meuse river early in May. This was one of the greatest military routs in history.

THE ADDRESS of David Sigourney, principal orator at Harvard's class day exercises, was both fortunate and unfortunate.

It was fortunate because it inspired an emphatic and understandable expression of the sentiments of undergraduates and the more youthful alumni.

It was unfortunate because it introduced a controversial question into a program that is traditionally joyful and harmonious.

Said Mr. Sigourney:

"We were glad to do our part in the last war. As parents we would be proud to see our sons get in there and do the job again."

The response was a deafening thunder clap of un-Harvardian boos, howls and noises vulgarly known as "Bronx cheers," with one senior shouting loudly above his fellows:

"They are giving us our diplomas in the morning and they would give us guns and send us to Europe in the afternoon."

Better received in fact, enthusiastically received—was the advice of Class Orator Tudor Gardiner, son of a former Governor of Maine.

Said young Mr. Gardiner:

"America must face the fact that we can never wield great power abroad except at a sacrifice fatal to the America we know and love. BUT WE CAN MAKE THIS HEMISPHERE IMPREGNABLE."

"The Allies were not prepared for the last war and it is too late to help them. We must start preparing for the next war now. It may come closer and from an unexpected direction."

"Under the circumstances we cannot police the world."

That is realistic thinking, a great deal more realistic than the nightmarish, hysterical utterances of a few older and safely-above-the-draft-age Harvard graduates who ignore this country's deplorable state of unpreparedness and who would send young men "over there" with broomsticks in their hands to conquer an enemy armed to the teeth with everything that Twentieth Century ingenuity can imagine and provide.

HARVARD MEN have never lacked courage in any call to the colors.

They have fought with valor and distinction in every American war, from the pre-Revolution conflicts to the needless venture of 1917, when three hundred and seventy-one alumni made the supreme sacrifice of dying in action.

And, unless we miss our guess, the present crop of seniors is wholly as patriotic as their fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers were.

If the government wisely adopts a system of universal military training FOR DEFENSE, these young men will do their part.

Of course the Communists, the radicals and their ilk who have been petted and pampered in recent years at the Cambridge institution may be conspicuously and inexplicably absent.

But the real Harvardian, wholly and proudly American, will shoulder a gun, man a ship, fly a plane and do anything else the preservation of the United States requires.

THE LIGHTNING DEATH of a Framingham man, struck and instantly killed as he stood under a tree on a golf course during a cloudburst in Wrentham, should be a warning to all.

When an electrical disturbance is in progress in the vicinity, a tree affords about the most unsafe shelter one can seek.

Lightning usually strikes the tallest object in the vicinity, as the remarkable photograph shows.

Here, a bolt is crashing down upon the topmost point of the Empire State Building, highest structure in New York City.

No damage is done in this case, because the steel skeleton of the skyscraper permits the electricity to flow instantaneously to the ground.

In like manner, a tree, particularly an isolated tree in an open field, is a favorite target for Nature's artillery.

When lightning is streaking the sky, the sensible thing to do is to get to a building and avoid open windows and chimneys near the chimney.

Getting into an automobile is even better, for the metal body provides excellent protection.

But if a building or automobile cannot be reached, the person should lie flat on the ground, sacrificing his comfort and ruining, if necessary, his clothing.

On The Side

THERE SEEMS to be an epidemic of divorce. Why? Seeking an answer I came upon a piece by Judith Cortada which cites examples or what women claim to be grounds for divorce. One woman claimed her husband put itching powder in her corset. Another said her husband smoked around 20 pipefuls of tobacco in bed every night and wouldn't let her open the window. A very bitter wife told the court her husband had presented her with a book "Two Hundred and One Ways to Commit Suicide." Another said her husband made her wear glasses though she didn't need them because he said he couldn't love a woman who didn't wear spectacles. (Page Dorothy Parker!) A Chicago woman said her husband, a former army bugler, awoke at dawn every morning and began blowing upon his bugle. A woman who admitted she had served her husband hamburger steak for dinner seven nights running complained her husband "in a fit of temper" locked her in a room for ten days during which time he gave her nothing to eat but hamburger.

JINX FALKENBERG is a glamour girl who apparently has a highly imaginative press agent. I never knew anybody else named Falkenberg except a Major League pitcher. VILMA EBSEN is a member of the brother and sister dancing team of Vilma and Buddy Ebsen. Vilma's sister-in-law is Ruth Cambridge who is Mr. Winchell's Girl Friday. A young woman once phoned in and said she would like to be this department's Girl Friday. I told her that would be an infringement on Mr. Winchell's brilliant idea. And she said: "Well, then you could call me Durling's Little Helper." . . . American women prefer tall men, says a contemporary who comes to the conclusion by citing most popular male film stars are all over six feet. Among popular six footers mentioned are Errol Flynn, Robert Taylor, Cary Grant, Wayne Morris, Cesar Romero, George Brent, Robert Montgomery, Henry Fonda, James Stewart and Clark Gable. If Clark Gable is now six feet tall, as this writer says, his wife, Carole Lombard, must have bought him some of those high heeled shoes for men. Gable always appeared about five feet nine inches tall to me.

"EXOTIC MICHAEL NEALE" is the caption under a news photograph. And Michael is indeed exotic. Michael, in case you don't know, is a show girl. Was2 do women add to the general confusion by taking names meant to be used by men?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY, June 21—Something curious is happening to us in this country and I think it is time we stopped and took stock of ourselves.

Are we going to be swept away from our traditional attitude toward civil liberties by hysteria about "Fifth Columnists" or are we going to keep our heads and rid ourselves of "Fifth Columnists" through the use of properly constituted government officials?

If we violate the rights of innocent people or even of guilty people, we lose our long established liberties because of our desire to curtail the activities of those who are dangerous as groups or as individuals by trying to curtail them in unconstitutional and ill considered ways.

ON PAGE ONE of a newspaper yesterday morning there appeared the headline: "Crowds Force Sect Members to March With Flag in Wyoming." The story tells how six people of a certain religious sect were dragged from their homes and forced to pledge allegiance to the flag.

In public places at this time we might exact this of all people, and the most dangerous Fifth Columnists would be the first to conform. Must we drag people out of their homes to force them to do something which is in opposition to their religion?

In another article it is reported that the attorney general has had to explain to Congress that a bill approved by the House will, if it becomes a law, constitute a historic departure from an unbroken American practice and tradition for 150 years.

This bill is perhaps the best example of abridging our liberties in order to protect ourselves from one individual, who can easily be rendered harmless by far less dangerous methods.

THE THIRD ARTICLE is one which states that a leader of great prominence in Catholic youth, Boy Scouts and Boys Club of America, is going to lead the fight on what he considers subversive elements in a youth-led organization.

One of the first things he suggests is that he will demand that this organization advocate the suspension of civil liberties in this country as far as Communists are concerned.

He is quoted as saying: "I don't think it is any time to pamper those who are bent on destroying our country. These birds meaning the Communists) are subversive. I fought in one war and I will fight in another to defend my country, but I don't want to do it with a lot of saboteurs at my back."

The gentleman in question is 42 years old. The people in the youth-led organization are likely to be dead in the front line of battle before he is even called.

If they happen to feel that our Constitution should be adhered to, unless it should be changed, they seem to be thinking along the same lines as the Attorney General of the United States.

CRAVEN TAKES TIP,
WINS NEW FAME

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 21—Frank Craven, now starring in the movie version of "Our Town," was accorded the best reviews he's ever received in his long career. This ends a story which began in France a few years ago when Jed Harris took the first draft, written in long hand, of Thornton Wilder's play, brought it back to N. Y., and immediately wired Craven, who was reluctant to interrupt his film career. "This play will win the Pulitzer Prize," Harris assured him. "But I'll insert this clause in your contract; that, at any time before the opening, you can quit the show, if you don't agree that this is the finest role you've ever played." Craven signed the contract.

LAMENT: Eugenie Leonovich, wife of Gregory Ratoff, again has achieved prominence by her current performance in "Four Sons." Ratoff and Leonovich had their first quarrel when Eugenie won her first acclaim here in "Grand Hotel." Her husband went to Chicago to see her while the show was touring. "The railroad wheels seem to be saying 'I'm going to see my Mamusha,'" Ratoff reported later, "but when she saw me she said: 'Get out of my sight, quick.'" "That must have sounded terrible," a friend consoled. "Nothing could have sounded worse than that." "Oh, it sounded worse than that," Ratoff explained, "because she said it in Russian."

CHALLENGE: Jimmy Kelly, the Greenwich Village night club proprietor, supped with Jimmy Durante in Sardi's. Jimmy ordered an orangeade. "I'll top you," Kelly announced. "We'll have champagne, instead." The champagne was served. . . . Durante then ordered a cheese sandwich. "I'll top you," Kelly continued. "We're going to have roast chicken." The chicken was served. . . . When the bill was presented, Durante drew a $100 bill. "This bill's all I have. Sardi can't change it," Durante laughed, "so you pay." "I'll top you," Kelly countered and exhibited his own wallet—which contained only a single $500 bill.

TRIUMPH: Dudley Field Malone attended two testimonial dinners given to Harry Hersfield, at which small medallions of the guest of honor were presented as souvenirs to the guests. . . . When Hersfield met Malone later, and was asked: "Would you consider your testimonial dinners a success?" He replied: "Yes—as soon as the guests found out that the medallions fitted the slots downstairs in Grand Central Station."

EXCLUSIVE: Rumors of the first Fifth Column serious scare in the Andover-Lawrence district had reached such proportions today that authorities considered an official statement of some nature to allay the wild gossip and talk. . . . At last midnight the rumors had engulfed the Lowell district. . . . The burden of the stories was that a prominent citizen of foreign nativity, who holds an important position in a large corporation, had been apprehended. . . . Raiders had discovered a radio sending set in the man's sumptuous home, according to the stories, and messages between the secret radio equipment and a Berlin outlet were supposed to have been used to confront the suspect when he was questioned.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Former Governor James M. Curley has decided to be a bystander in the coming election. . . . Convalescent with a broken leg, Mr. Curley will point for the Boston mayoralty in 1941. . . . Meantime, his campaign to be chosen Democratic national committeeman is being carried on. . . . Herb Penneck, chief talent scout of the Red Sox, enjoyed a late luncheon at Jimmy O'Keefe's Grill whence he was conveyed by admirers to the East Boston airport and the 4:20 plane for San Francisco. . . . The famous former Yankee pitcher planned to have breakfast in the West Coast port. . . . Herbert was indisposed at the prospect of the Red Sox relinquishing the lead temporarily. . . . The tension is always most severe in the camp of the pace-setter in a big-league race, Herb pointed out.

OPERATORS OF A BOSTON CHAIN of shooting galleries are attempting to reorganize. . . . The venture was established in 1938, with a number of targets and ranges established in key (and expensive) downtown locations. . . . With resorts throughout the country now reporting a boom in the shooting gallery business, the Boston venture was being mourned as a good idea, but a couple of years ahead of the time. . . . Shari Linden, the Boston nightclub (Latin Quarter and Westminster Blue Room) pianiste, has been engaged for the summer season at the Hotel Pilgrim, Plymouth. . . . And Alex Finn's Casa Madrid, in Harwichport, has been leased by John Burns, the Democratic street innkeeper. . . . The popular Cap Cod rendezvous will open June 28 with Al Reeves' orchestra and a quartet of girl singers heading the entertainment.

GEORGE CROGAN, THE WOBURN scribe and Notre Dame correspondent, suggests a "drive" to be known as "On to the Bee-Hive." . . . Jiggs Donahue, the old Red Sox player, has a plan to introduce a fast brand of baseball in army cantonments throughout the country. . . . Atty Paul Keefe of Arlington, who was Governor Ely's chief aide, is convalescent at Charlestown Hospital. . . . Edward M. Rowe, former director of debating at Harvard, and a Boston attorney, will make his third attempt to defeat Congressman Robert Luce for the Republican nomination from the 9th district in the September primaries.

BRITISH STUDIO WILL MOVE TO CANADA

By Harriet Parsons

Carl Brisson

Pinch-Hitting for Luella O. Parsons, Who is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 21—Associated British Films, one of the major English motion picture outfits, is planning to pack bag and baggage and move to Canada. John Maxwell and Walter Mycroft, who head the company, have instructed Hollywood Agent Fred Brisson to start lining up talent for them immediately. They'll build a whole new organization with actors, directors and technical experts culled from Hollywood. Probable location of their new quarters will be Vancouver, which is only eight hours by air from our film capital and will make it easy for them to draw talent from here. Furthermore, they would not have to build new sound stages in Vancouver since movies have been made there before and there are stages already constructed.

Maxwell and Mycroft will bring with them only one star, Carl Brisson, and three story properties, "Cavalier of the Night," "Door With Seven Locks" and "The Manxman." Carl, who starred in "The Manxman" as a silent will also do the remake. Hope he pays Hollywood a visit since he and his good wife (and superb cook) Greta made many friends when Carl was here appearing in American films.

PAULETTE
GODDARD

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Even the celebs at Mrs. Eddie Robinson's charity garden party passed when Marlene Dietrich, raffling off a kiss, got a bid of $1000 and when rich retired Easterner, William Gardner, topped it with $1025, chins hit the Robinson grandstand. Paulette Goddard went over big with a hot Rhumba, and all in all, a tidy sum must have been raised. Half goes to the Red Cross, half to Ann Leber's Hollywood Guild; Bob Stack's energetic mama, Beisl, is putting on a revival of "Journey's End" at the Stack Manse for the Red Cross and Robert will do one of the top roles.

EDMUND O'BRIEN, back from his tour with the Leigh-Clavier press-lambasted "Romeo and Juliet," resuming romantic matters with his former heart, Nancy Kelly. They broke up when she turned to Irving Cummings, Jr.; Bob Riskin must really care for Frances Robinson. He offered to give her his horse, Alex the Great, when the colt was leading the field during a race at Hollywood Park. But after Alex faded and finished dead last Frances said, "No thanks." Hobart Bosworth, Hollywood's grand old man, celebrates his 50th anniversary as an actor this Sunday. Mary Martin dashed into town yesterday, posed for some Para publicity stills, then back to Bridgeport Dick Halliday at Del Monte.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

ARMED CONFLICT had affected Vincent Lugl in a subtle, almost incredible manner. It had transformed him from a mild-mannered, inoffensive little man into a restless, heartless gangster whose only tenderness was for his brother.

Because of Lugl's reputation, Killer Burton, crime czar of a small Eastern city, summoned him from Toledo. . . .

"Vin, I got a little job for you, and there's two grand in it—if you do it right."

"Yeah," said Lugl. "Can do it okay. What's the set-up?"

Burton grunted and continued: "Well, this is only a small town and there's room for just one mob. I've been collecting protection money from every business man here and I've been cleaning up. Then a guy named Cugni moves in and tries to muscle in on my racket."

Vincent's face was expressionless. "Why not rub out his old crowd? Your boys could." . . .

BURTON looked disgusted. "You punk! Do you suppose the D. A.'s office would stand for a gang war? Now you listen. . . . This Cugni goes into 'Phil's Barber Shop' alone every morning at nine and leaves his bodyguard waiting outside in his car. He won't recognize you as my man so you get in there tomorrow. . . . Phil is fixed. . . .

Phil is fixed. . . .

Phil had a little shop near the residential section. When Vincent opened the door next morning a car was parked in front and a policeman was leaning on a corner mailbox. Only one customer was inside. He was in the chair, face smothered in a hot towel. Phil looked scared when he saw Lugl but jabbed his finger at towel-face. . . .

LUGL SLID a rod into his hand. . . . rammed it into Cugni's middle. "Cugni," he said, laughing a bit at the way his fingers gripped the arms of the chair. "Cugni, you're all washed up. . . . you and your racket. Get ready!" . . . He squeezed the trigger, grinning at the scream that bubbled from the covered lips.

A convulsion of pain sent the towel flying from the gangster's head. Lugl saw his victim's face. . . . stopped abruptly, heart-pitching horror riveting him to the floor.

The early papers carried huge black headlines. . . .

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

STOPPING over in Chicago doing a talkie tour. And was I blue! Blue as only a Californian can be blue. Homesick. . . . discouraged. Couldn't think—couldn't write. So I went to the movies. Chicago Theater. Nice place. Mighty nice. Wiped away the homesickness with its first friendly smile. Yet I still was blue. Thinking of the tragedy overseas. . . . of the spreading fear here at home. . . . of the heartbreak and horror befalling the world. Thinking and wishing I could do something to help. Wishing, too, that I could find something to put courage back in my own sagging spine.

And suddenly I did! Came a soft swish—and a girl was wheeled on to the stage.

A ROAR greeted her, for here was no casual stranger. Here was valiant Connie Boswell. . . . beloved by all the radio world. . . . wheeled on by the husband who shares her buoyant spirit and her gallant determination to keep on singing through her long, dark night.

Connie Boswell—I'd heard of her, of course. Been touched by her story. Yet, even as I listened to that thunderous welcome and watched her stately eyed response. . . . I was thinking to myself— "What can this poor, handicapped child. . . . this sheltered woman. . . . know of the world's agony today? What can she realize of the terror sweeping all hearts. . . . of the loneliness and bewilderment."

I stopped. For, out from the spotlight, a voice was coming. A voice that held all the loneliness in the world. . . . that throbbled with misery and yearned with heartbreak and hunger. . . . then rose, on broken wings, to noble heights.

Connie Boswell was singing "Stormy Weather!" And in that song, clashing the threat with its passion there lay all the heart of humanity.

SHE WAS PRAYING that America might come whole and clean through its "Stormy Weather" . . . that it might be saved from the dreadful "rocking chair" of complacency and indifference and cowardly compromise.

Out of her own personal tragedy and bondage, a crippled girl, who may never step again, was pleading that America might walk, forever, in the peace and freedom of the sun. . . . and was stirring each listening spirit to a new and nobler conception of its duty and its rights.

Then she was gone, tears on her face, hands trembling. . . . gone in her lifelong chair. Gone with her song, flaming like a newly lit torch in every heart that had heard her.

GATELEE FOUND DEAD

John F. Gatelee of Springfield, nationally-known and hard-hitting labor leader who from 1934 through 1935 was president of the State Federation of Labor, was found dead today in a cabin at Greenville, Me., at southern end of Moosehead lake.

The law leader, a motion picture operator of the early days, was 55 years old and had been in Greenville on a fishing trip following an illness of some duration.

While one of his death was lacking, it is believed by friends in Massachusetts that because of his untimely death was due to natural causes.

He is seen by his wife in Springfield, John, living at home there by two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Davis of Birdsboro, Pa., and Miss Anna Gatelee, who is at home.

For ten years before he headed the state union, Gatelee was vice-president of that organization.

Recently he was New England representative of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees for 28 out of the 30 years existence he had been bursar for Local 156, Motion Picture Operators Union, Springfield.

In that capacity set an all-time record holding the presidency of the labor union for 14 years.

One of his outstanding achievements in their field was the victory he won for the American Federation of Labor over the CIO on the West Coast in a dispute involving some 50,000 motion picture trade unions.

FUMBLING for a lost dime to complete her long distance call, Edith found the address book. Then her mother's voice spoke over the wire and she scarcely knew what she had in her hand.

In the brightest tones she could muster, she told her mother New York was wonderful! Her first day in the new job hadn't been bad at all. Yes, it was a small office. Very respectable married men. Except for the elderly woman bookkeeper, she was the only girl. There would be wonderful chances for promotion. Yes, New York was wonderful. New York was simply marvelous.

"Have a good time," her mother cried. "Enjoy New York."

As the operator's demand for more money, Edith said a hurried goodbye. The little red book in her hand, she went up to her rooming house bedroom and enjoyed New York by weeping a few tears. Then she began looking at the little book. It belonged to Kay Turner. And Kay certainly had lots of friends. If Edith only knew all these lovely people, perhaps New York really would be marvelous.

The book must be returned, of course. There on the inside cover was the address. Only a few blocks away. Edith brightened. Here was her chance. Here was her chance. She would run over with the lost address book—and get acquainted with Kay Turner. Who knows? Maybe she would soon be knowing all Kay Turner's friends.

Cooking her cute little New York hat over one eye, she started out humming. Past an awe inspiring doorman, Edith marched bravely. At the desk, she asked to be announced to Miss Turner. "Gone out of town. . . Left last week. . . No, we don't know when she will be back. . . No, she left no forwarding address."

Momentarily dumfounded, Edith left the apartment house—and then hope flared and she was no longer lonely. If Kay Turner went away and left all these lovely people, perhaps she wouldn't mind if Edith Dean inherited her friends!

Certainly it was Edith's duty to ask them Kay's forwarding address and get the little red book back to her. In the drug store booth, she took a girl's number. But Betty Incheape, Algonquin 9-742. Miss Incheape voice grew a shade cooler at the mention of Kay Turner's name and she was very sorry, but she didn't know where Miss Turner had gone. Chelsea 5-9742 and Murray Hill 2-9742 gave much the same response. One girl announced very snappily that he didn't know where Kay Turner was, but she hoped she would stay in town.

EDITH CALLS MEN

Apparently Kay Turner's women friends weren't very friendly. Edith decided the men would be more helpful. Bob Sterling sounded as if he might be a nice chap. He was, at least his voice was, deep and manly and informal. If

The Cast of Characters in "Lost Addresses"

EDITH, a lonesome stranger in New York, finds an address book belonging to KAY, whose boy friend at the moment, seems to be Bob.

Lost Addresses

By Isabel Johnston

Bob Sterling hadn't been Kay Turner's man friend, Edith could have fallen for his voice.

"Kay's in Miami but I don't know where," he said, sounding a bit hurt. "She promised she'd write and let me know her address, but I haven't heard a word from her."

"Oh, but you mustn't feel badly," Edith comforted him. "She lost her address book. That's why I'm phoning. To get it back to her."

She went on to tell him of her efforts.

"You're going to a lot of trouble," he said.

"But I know how I'd feel in her place," she sympathized. "I would feel terrible if I couldn't write and get letters from any friends. She's probably not enjoying Miami at all because she can't get in touch with you."

He chuckled at that, and Edith promised to phone him the moment she located Kay's address. It was he who laughingly suggested she keep him posted about her search. It was almost as if he were her friend.

Her nickels ran out then. So she went back to her room, checking Bob Sterling's friendliness and wishing he weren't Kay Turner's beau. But, of course he was, and she told herself she wouldn't call him again except to give Kay's address.

During a lull at the office next morning she told Sonya Varloff, Plaza 2-3376.

"I'd like to know where she is myself," Miss Varloff snapped. "She owes me for five dresses—and I haven't heard a word from her."

Nothing Edith could say seemed to make Sonya Varloff believe that Kay Turner didn't skip town to cheat creditors. To convince the woman, Edith visited the shop at noon and showed her the lost address book. Miss Varloff still insisted Miss Turner was a chic goodlooking deadbeat. Edith finally appeared her by buying and paying cash for a dress.

STILL ON THE TRAIL

The frock was so nice. Edith was so pleased with it, she made an appointment with a beauty parlor she found in Kay's book. Louis had nothing but praise for Miss Turner's dark beauty. He gave Edith a charming cut and curl at the mention of Miss Turner's name. But he didn't know where she was staying in Florida any more than was

"And Stanley Smith's wife, she acted as if Kay might have run off with her husband," Edith said. "When, probably Kay only knew him before he was married and wouldn't think of the most casual late with him now."

"You're the first girl I've met who ever defended another woman," he said, and a gentle, tender date was in his eyes.

Quickly Edith took up the address book and got down to business. Edith was very helpful, but Edith insisted on going home early. In the next three weeks they got together a great deal. But when ever Edith grew personal in conversation, Edith told herself he was not her man.

And then one night Bob as-she had only time for a hasty good-bye to her business.

In the taxi he pushed her around her protesting.

At last Edith pretended not to notice and rushed rapidly about Kay's gifts as a business. But Edith was gently drawing her dress.

"But you mustn't," Edith protested. "You're Kay Turner's boy friend."

"Oh, Kay has lots of boy friends," he dismissed her with a slight change of tone. "I don't mind you in the least. I don't mind you at all. I don't mind you at all."

THE END

one else.

Determined not to call Bob Sterling without definite news, Edith stocked up on nickels that evening and went to work. Her first call was a catastrophe. Worried and disturbed about it, she finally telephoned Bob Sterling and asked his advice.

"I've done something terrible," she explained. "I phoned a man for Kay's address—and I got his wife. Bob Sterling roared with amusement."

"She sounded furious," Edith worried. "She said her husband was out of town and she had never heard of Kay Turner."

As soon as he could control his laughter, Bob Sterling suggested the restaurant where they dined that evening and let him check the numbers. It was safe for her to call.

Bob Sterling was as charming as his voice, tall and handsome too. The restaurant where they dined was candle lit and delightful. Bob was gay and amusing. Edith made herself be very quiet and serious and businesslike. She put the little red book beside her plate to remind herself, and Bob, too, that he was Kay Turner's property.

"New York's lovely if people weren't so suspicious," she confided. "You know Kay Turner wouldn't cheat that shopkeeper?"

"Of course," Kay wouldn't be agreed, but seemed to find it amusing.

two. She'd phoned him. Edith made him give her Kay's number and left early on the plea that her head ached. It did a little.

Over the telephone, Kay's voice was a husky, gravelly contralto. Edith explained about the address book ended up by saying that Bob Sterling had been most helpful.

Grilled by his new friend, did you see, the husky fellow grunted, and Edith couldn't tell whether Kay Turner was joking or angry. "Well, come over tomorrow night to my welcome home party and bring the book with you."

"All right!"

Stunned and so appalled and hilarious Kay Turner swooped down. Edith made her timid entrance into the party. Flourishing the red address book, Kay introduced Edith to everybody as Miss Alibi. There was a great deal of noise and confusion.

When Edith arrived late, Kay rushed up and kissed her. Of course, she kissed everyone, but her welcome to Edith seemed especially demonstrative. Hugging his arm, she nudged him around the circle, introducing him. Apparently forgetting Edith and Edith knew each other, she presented him to Miss Alibi, too—and then swept him on. "Want some fresh air?" At last Edith came to her rescue.

But when I mean you mustn't leave Kay's party," she objected, but he carried her off so quickly

IRENE DUNNE'S FILM PROVES RICH JACKPOT OF LAUGHS

Romantic Farce Scores Hit

By PEGGY DOYLE

Escapists are having the time of their lives at Keith-Memorial where the Spewacky comedy, "My Favorite Wife," is proving just what the doctor ordered for your and the box office's well-being these days.

It re-unites those unholy terrors—Cary Grant, Irene Dunne and Cary Grant, and Producer Leo McCarty—in one of those deliciously ribald husband-and-wife romantic farces that takes up where they left off in their sensationally successful screen hit, "The Awful Truth."

Again they get a jackpot of laughs. Again that tantalizing witch, Miss Dunne, is trying the patience of the bewildered Cary Grant. Again the helpless Grant finds himself fascinated beyond resistance and prettily if firmly rebuffed when his favorite wife perceives it.

Briefly, the situation is this: Miss Dunne officially declared dead by drowning seven years before while on a South Seas expedition, returns on the day her husband marries his third wife.

Of course, the story would have ended right here and you and you and I wouldn't have the opportunity to nearly die of laughter. But the girls had to have a frank talk. But they don't. So they do. Grant learns that his wife's fellow escapee on the desert island has been the handsome and virile Randolph Scott.

At in "The Awful Truth," Miss Dunne and Grant prove to be the funniest married couple in the business, outwitting the most cunning of the "Twin" duo—Myrna Loy and Melvyn Frank.

Gail Patrick, neglected in her previous, is satisfactory as the other wife. Donald MacBride's suspicious hotel manager beetles benevolently with comic effect, but it is Grant's Bates' judge, whose remarks are distinguished by a Coolidge brevity and dryness, who makes the 100 per cent comedy contribution.

"Sandy Is a Lady," the second feature, introduces Baby Sandy in her first starring role. She's the only cute trick on the lot—the rest are bakers.

There is also a special "U. S. Navy" newswire feature.

Para-Fenway Offer Rich Fare

Eric von Stroheim, who can capsule a complete characterization in a gesture or an intonation, does it again in "I Married an Adventuress," the Darryl F. Zanuck production which introduces Dancer Zorina as a screen actress. This 20th Century-Fox remake of the French film of the same name is Hollywood's demonstration of how to adapt a routine story into entertaining screen fare. It is currently at the Paramount and the Fenway.

Director Gregory Ratoff is said to have had his troubles with Director-Actor von Stroheim, who believed himself better qualified to direct the von Stroheim scenes. In any event, von Stroheim's con-man is a screen masterpiece. The two beautiful Zorinas, whose screen debut in "On Your Toes" was far from auspicious, is a credit to the company as in her present film appearance. But Zorina makes it clear she can take her ballet dancing or leave it alone. She does an excellent acting job and looks gorgeous besides.

Outstanding is Peter Lorre's "Kleptomaniac" "con," a characterization that is proof that the skilled performer in the German-made production, "M," deserves better than a Muto finish. Richard Greene's fantastically chiseled profile is his chief contribution to the picture. "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," symposium in a title, is the second feature and has such bright, young sweethearts in its cast as Johnny Downs, Peggy Moran and

RKO Boston's Screen Offers Genuine Jungle Thrills

The Congo's Conga dancers and its man-eating leopard men share starring honors in "Leopard Men of Africa," Explorer Paul

L. Loeffer's film recording of his latest expedition into the African wilds, which is featuring the new RKO Boston show.

Wild and wonderful are some of his findings, not excluding a plant that wits in warning of an approaching earthquake or the custom-tailored shorts worn by some of the molasses-colored natives.

Some of the best shots on the safari-minus-Madeleine Carroll are those showing the earthquake, the natives attacking a lion who has killed one of their number and the almost too realistic sequences of the sadistic tribal rituals.

Not nearly as fearsome-appearing as we had anticipated were the "leopard men," all looted out in razor-sharp, clawlike hands and a well-worn leopard skin that could do double duty before a fireplace.

Infinitely more arresting were the animal shots, to obtain which Dr. Loeffer snuck up on wild beasts, lions, tigers and other man-killing jungle-murderers as they roamed the wilds foraging for their human prey or, failing that, a baby dick-dick or cheetah. The baby dick-dick is a doe-eyed little bundle of pet and tree photogenic.

Dr. Loeffer revealed that the drum is actually the jungle telephone and is used by the Leopard men to summon his brother-killers when a murder is planned.

The Boston's second feature, "Half a Sinner," co-stars Heather Angel and John King. Miss Angel is presented as a school-teacher who yearns for adventure and gets it.

The All-America Baseball Cuckoo

By AUSTEN LAKE

I AM OFFERING THIS PERFECTLY PRICELESS suggestion to baseball for the insignificant sum of 2c a copy. There should be a special niche in Cooperstown Hall of Fame, an alcove devoted to the game's All-America cuckoo, wherein the broad, piliated puss of Brooklyn's impresario of impudence, Mr. Larry McPhail, can be enshrined in imperishable bronze.

AUSTEN LAKE

Late Senator Huey Long led snake dances on Louisiana's campus.

Larry's list of antics is long. He screeched columns of newspaper about Bill Terry intimidating National League umpires to render their decisions with a New York twist. Last week when he tuned in his office radio set on the Brooklyn ball game and heard nothing but sounds of frying fat, he ordered the station silenced until it rendered a more powerful broadcast. He hauled off last Spring and belted somebody silly in the lobby of the Dodgers' training hotel. He once barred a journalist who labelled him "Larry McFailure" from the press coop, et cetera!

So 'tuther day when Pitcher Bob Bowman of the St. Louis Cardinals beamed Ducky Medwick, Larry leaped from the mezzanine floor and stormed down to the visiting dugout where he formed a one-man picket line. He drummed his chest. He ground sparks with his teeth. He challenged the Cards to come out and fight. Yuh saffron-livered, weazel-hearted so's-and-so's!

THE CARDINALS MERELY BLEW RUDE NOISES with their tongues. So Larry scampered upstairs and dictated a 10-page screed to the press, Mayor LaGuardia, the Dies Committee and the world. He accused Bowman and the Cardinals of atrocious assault with malicious intent. It was a conspiracy! It was sabotage! It was a fifth column! It was hoodlumism!

So Dist-Atty. William O'Dwyer of Queens read it in the morning papers over his toast and eggs and with an astute political nose, said "Well, not a plot!" Grabbing the telephone he ordered his chief assistant, Mr. Burton B. Turkus, whose last job was investigating Murder, Inc. to snatch himself a squad of detectives, motorcycle to Ebbets Field and probe this beanball job. Grill 'em good! Frisk everybody! Make 'em sing!

Did that please the mercurial Mr. McPhail? Not he! "None of O'Dwyer's business," he hissed, in accordance with the strict gangsters' code to settle grudges in private. "This is a personal feud and we ain't sharing this fight with no outsiders!" Did Mr. O'Dwyer withdraw? Not he! "We don't take instructions from Mr. McPhail," he said. "This office operates in the interest of public justice."

Now, please, can Atty. O'Dwyer, his man Turkus, Lolligagging Larry or Pres. Ford Frick determine whether Bowman dusted off Medwick intentionally or through honest lack of control. The umpire having jurisdiction on the play couldn't tell! And it is up to the umpire to say whether a pitcher is trying to find the plate or trying to avoid it. He has no other decision to make than that the pitcher's intent is strictly honest and the president of the league and the district attorney has to interpret it the same way.

THROWING BEANBALLS IS AN OFFICIAL SIN, with a scale of penalties for first, second and third offenses. Yet in the many years of blowing batters down for purposes of intimidation, there has never, in my memory, been a single case where a pitcher was fined or suspended for the practice. True, a few years ago when Dizzy Dean fired what everybody recognized as a whole armful of beanballs at the heads of the Giants and started a gang fight on the field, President Ford Frick fined him $50. For what? "For actions," read his communique, "on the ball field tending to incite a riot."

It's a fine legal point! For, as long as Dizzy fired beanballs, his intention was foggy. But when he began pitching punches there was no doubt of his purpose.

When Ben Chapman of the Cleveland Indians was killed by Carl Mays in 1920 and when Mickey Cochrane's skull was fractured by Bump Hadley, in 1937, there were no convictions. Both pitchers insisted they had not thrown to hit the batters and there the matter rested. The suspicion was not so much dispersed as it was not proved.

Similarly Pitcher Bowman of the Cards sought refuge in his constitutional right to avoid self-incrimination and said that his temporary lapse of control traced to nervous twitters.

Major League pitchers will, inevitably, continue to use the dustier as a moral effect on the batters. And only recently, when someone in the Red Sox clubhouse was joshing Mose Grove about knocking rival batters down, Mose was told, "Why if you had two strikes and nothing or your Grandmother, you'd dust her off." Mose mused thoughtfully a while and then said, "No! I wouldn't," then as an added idea, "But I might drive the old lady back from the plate a little!"

That gives you an idea!

LOUIS PUNCHING POWER CRUSHES GODOY IN 8TH

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, June 21—Joe Louis' terrific punching power enabled him to knock out Arturo Godoy of Chile after 1:24 of fighting in the eighth round of the title bout at the Yankee Stadium before 27,786 persons.

Louis had twice dropped Godoy to the canvas with savage right hand blow in the final session. After the first knockdown, Godoy took the benefit of the count of eight. The South American was in a helpless condition when he regained his feet. Louis then dropped Godoy to the canvas with another smashing right to the jaw.

Before the knockdown timekeeper could start his count, Referee Billy Cavanaugh, who used to fight under the name of Billy Glover when he lived in South Boston, stopped the bout.

Godoy jumped to his feet, and insisted on fighting. He brushed past the referee and took a punch at Louis. The blow missed its mark. Half a dozen seconds and a police detail was required to get Godoy to call it a night and return to his corner.

HAD ONLY COURAGE

The South American was badly beaten when Referee Cavanaugh halted the bout. The average type of boxer would have been glad to have quit at that point, but Godoy isn't that type of ring man. He has courage and spirit, and was able to carry on while he was being stood up.

Louis carried every round but the fourth, which was Godoy's by a narrow margin. While defeated,

| Godoy's share | $22,259.47 |

Godoy won many friends by the persistency of his attack and his eagerness to keep going even when badly hurt.

Godoy had the misfortune to have a big wound opened over his left eye in the first round.

Louis was smart enough to keep shooting at the injury with short jarring right-hand blows when at close quarters. The South American's face was usually a mass of blood at the end of each round.

CHAMP USED CAUTION

Louis fought a cautious battle up to the sixth round. The champion did not wish to take any chances of cracking his hands on Godoy's head. The Chilean chiller at times fought from a low crouch, and Louis found difficulty reaching him with right-hand blows.

Louis wisely kept shooting his left hand at Godoy. It was easier for Joe to find his mark with left hands than with his right. There was also less risk of injury by this method of attack.

Godoy made his best showing in the fourth session. Louis started a rally and fired away with both hands. Godoy refused to give an inch of ground and had the edge on the champion in the exchange of blows. Each heavyweight scored with about 20 blistering blows.

OPENED UP IN SIXTH

Louis began to open up in the sixth round. He caught Godoy with a short left hook while the boxers were close to the ropes. As Godoy straightened up, Louis nailed him with a terrific right to the jaw. The force of the blow turned Godoy part way around.

Louis continued his fiery attack in the seventh session. He rocked Godoy with left and right hand blows to the head. The South American persisted in forcing his way to close quarters and as he did Louis crashed a mighty right to the jaw. Godoy went to the canvas for a count of six. Godoy got up fighting and then the bell came to his rescue.

In the eighth round Louis went

42 Two Harvard Crews Sweep To Victory Over Eli Boatmen

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1940

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 21 (AP)—Harvard's freshman eight finally opened the 73rd regatta with Yale by defeating their Eli rivals by more than ten lengths today in a two mile race on the Thames river.

CRIMSON IN LEAD

The Crimson crew, off to an even start, jumped into the lead before it completed its racing start and gradually pulled away from over-matched rivals.

Harvard had a length lead after the first eighth mile and much open water separated the shells before they reached the quarter-mile mark.

The Harvard junior varsity crew, which led from the start, defeated its Yale rivals by more than four lengths in another two-mile duel. The Crimson Jayvees pulled into a length and a quarter lead during the first quarter mile and held that margin until it reached the mile mark. Harvard was about two lengths ahead a half mile from the finish line and, despite the Eli's frantic efforts, it held every inch until the finish line was reached.

YALE SURGE FAILS

Woods making its futile bid to pull even during the last half mile, the Yale crew pumped its boat as high as 37, but it made no impression against the smooth-rowing Crimson sweepers, who held it to a 32 boat after its successful charge.

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 21 (AP)—When the Harvard and Yale varsity crews paddle to their stake boats at the lower end of the Thames river somewhere around 6:30 p. m. (EST) this evening, they will be ready to demonstrate the result of what is probably the sport world's longest training period.

Offhand, no other sport comes to mind in which the athletes spend almost five months preparing for a single competition.

Of course, both Yale and Harvard have had races "en route," so to speak. But these were spring races, of which each crew lost one, and they were dismissed as little more than routine time trials once the rival navies settled down to work in their elaborate establishments at Red Top and Gales Ferry.

BOTH ON EDGE

This is "the race," before it everything else pales. For oarsmen, young and old, of both colleges it has the combined importance and impact of the World Series, the national open, the heavyweight championship fight and the Kentucky Derby.

Both the Harvard and Yale oarsmen went into this last day tuned to the first pitch. Tempered, a bit edgy—ever more so because, for fear of leaving them exposed to too much sunlight, the lads were barred from watching this morning's preliminary races and under strict orders to stick close to the home base.

LOUIS K. O.'S GODOY IN 8TH ROUND

out for the kill. He tossed caution to the winds as he cut loose with a barrage of left and right hand blows to the head. Godoy tried to go into a crouch to avoid the champion's wallop and he was straightened by a left hand thrust.

A PERFECT PUNCH

As Godoy stumbled forward, the blood pouring from a wound over his left eye, Louis put every ounce of energy in his perfectly conditioned body behind a right to the jaw. It was a perfect punch, and Godoy went to the canvas for the second knockdown of the bout.

At the count of eight the Chilean was on his feet. Once more Godoy moved forward. There was a puzzled look on Louis' face as he was wondering what was holding Godoy up.

The champion then got down to the business of fighting again. Left and right hand smashes bounced off Godoy's jaw, and the South American went down again.

Before a count could be started Referee Cavanaugh intervened and halted the uneven bout.

Godoy then staged his private battle. He pushed Cavanaugh aside and rushed in the general direction of Louis. Godoy let drive a left hook that missed his mark. The merciful seconds and friendly police then escorted Godoy to his corner. The South American had been defeated decisively but he certainly was not disgraced.

CLAIMS LOUIS BUTTED

Back in his dressing room, Godoy said that Louis had butted him in the first round and that this is what caused the injury over his left eye. It was a right hand punch rather than a butt that caused the damage.

"Godoy sure was tough," said Louis. "I never hit an opponent as hard and as often as I did Godoy."

This writer called the turn on the ending of the bout. I stated Louis would win by a knockout between the eighth and thirteenth round.

By winning in the eighth, Louis made good my prediction. I felt it would take Louis several rounds to overcome Godoy's awkward style.

Arthur Donovan, who has refereed most heavyweight bouts in New York in recent years was named by the Boxing Commission as third man in the ring for the Louis Godoy tussle. This action was taken on account of a recent magazine article written by Donovan in which the referee compared Louis and Godoy. Donovan declared Louis was the superior fighter.

The commission felt that Donovan would be accused of judging the bout and that any decision he might make would be open to criticism.

LOUIS FOUGHT AT 199 POUNDS

There was an array of former and present day ring greats introduced before the feature bout. They included Tony Galento and Max Baer, who battle in Jersey City on July 2nd for the right to meet Louis. Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Jimmy Braddock and Hammering Henry Armstrong were also introduced.

The weather for the title bout was chilly, but once Louis got down to tussling his Sunday punches the fans forgot all about the cold.

At 199 pounds Louis was in the best condition of his career. Godoy weighed 201½ pounds and was also in splendid condition.

On the form Louis showed as he knocked out Godoy there isn't a heavyweight in sight who can defeat the champion. Louis can hold his title for two or three more years if he wishes and then do a Gene Tunney and retire undefeated.

Healey May Try Ironman Act In H-Y Rubber

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 21—Coach Floyd Stahl of Harvard may use his ace pitcher, Capt. Tom Healey, 200-pound righthander who has had but a single day of rest in an effort to cop the deciding game of the 70th annual series with Yale here this afternoon.

Mentor Joe "Smoky" Wood is definitely set to employ son Joe, Jr., on the Yale mound.

Out most of the season with a bad arm and used sparingly at the most Harvard's, Capt. Healey, a Worcester boy, came back in fine fashion to pin a 4-3 nine-hit defeat on the Eli to even the series Wednesday before a class day crowd at Cambridge. Though he has had but one day to rest his arm Healey, if he reports a maul ready, will go against the Eli's this afternoon.

If Healey isn't ready either Eddy Ayres, big footballer who had trouble with his control on Tuesday when Yale banged him and Johnny Schwede for an 8-7, nine inning victory or reliever Schowde will get the starting mound assignment. Healey though seems the likely choice. Among them the trio of Crimson chuchers can give the favored Blue no end of trouble.

The yeast we use in brewing ale acts like a trained soldier—it comes to the top in fermentation, whereas beer yeast finds its way to the bottom of the tanks. That's one sign of a Genuine Ale... Another is that true ales are fermented at higher temperatures than beer...

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1940

MRS. PAUL SANBORN PAUL SANBORN
SHARKS DID IT. Here's 620-pound marlin caught by Mrs. Paul C. Sanborn of Boston off Bimini. Note how sharks have eaten into monster, which must have weighed 800 pounds before the sharkfest.

By DARK MONTREAL
Largest blue marlin ever caught by man or woman in American waters was brought to gaff by Mrs. Paul C. Sanborn of Boston, off Bimini last week.

Mrs. Sanborn is the wife of one of the youngest insurance executives in Boston.

Mutilated by sharks, the fish weighed 620 pounds and was estimated by the Museum of Natural History in New York to have weighed over 800 pounds before running afoul of the sharks. It measured 13½ feet in length, 68 inch girth and a 48 inch tail.

Breaking of the rod socket as the fish was about to be gaffed the first time resulted in loss of a new record for Mrs. Sanborn. The marlin, intact, was alongside and ready for the gaff when the socket broke. The marlin started a final run and on it the sharks caught up with him.

One of the many swift-water streams in New Hampshire is the Androscoggin. The town of Errol, located in northern Coos county, is the focal point for many New England sportsmen who fish this wilderness stream. From the dam at Errol, and downstream for a distance of approximately 15 miles; cool, clear water that is inhabited by salmon, rainbows and square tails is available to the angler. The fish, though they may vary in size, are all fighting specimens. They measure from 12 to 24 inches in length and weigh from two to four pounds.

Fast, white water is to be found at numerous places but the more popular stretches are those located at the dam in Errol, Jackknife Hill and Seven Islands in the Thirteen-Mile woods and below the Pontook dam. The depth of this fast-moving water ranges from one to three feet. In many places the swiftness of the current is such that wading, especially in the deeper sections, is very difficult.

Slow-moving water of considerable depth is found throughout the Thirteen-Mile woods. This section is well suited to the use of boats or canoes which may be launched with little difficulty from State Highway 16. This route and the river run close together, making portage only a matter of a few yards.

Maine fishing is holding up well in all sections. Deep trolling for trout and salmon is producing the best results in all but the remote northern sparsely settled waters, but a lot of fish are being taken on the fly at Moosehead and in the Kennebec.

The last season opens in full force today when the trolling and plug or bait casting methods will be used. The fish are now in the beds and excellent results are being reported.

Trout and salmon fishing was never better at Moosehead according to anglers from Warden Ed Leavelle of Alton. That big puddle will produce well all summer. At Sebago the catches are still running large, according to Warden Superius. Veau Blanc. Incidentally Sebago also offers some good bass fishing and big ones too. Best spots for this are at Kettle and Holbrook's Cove, Jordan's Lake and around Dunlap, Indian and Fawn Islands.

The Dennys river has at last began to really produce Atlantic salmon according to Herb Allen of the Dennys River Salmon Club. Fifteen of the big fellows ranging from eight to 10 pounds were hooked over the week-end, several on dry fly. More fish are being sighted from the upper wharf, the lower bridge, at the old dam, in the pools below Cathwaite and at the railroad bridge.

Rural Rubie, '39 champion seems to be one of the favorites in the Inaugural, for he has been running better than any dog at the track to date.

The Inaugural is the first of 12 feature events which will lead up to the National Championship late in August.

The first of the nocturnal schooling sessions was held last night and was attended by thousands of race addicts, all getting a line on their favorites. Hundreds of the world's leading greyhounds are competing in the nightly tests.
